07.08.2000 / 02:53 PM

Ex-partners at Advent International are planning to raise €75m for Digital Networks, a new investment company which will focus on European internet infrastructure companies.

The new fund, if successfully raised, will try to grab a stake in the internet plumbing sector. Though investors have already funded a plethora of infrastructure firms, Digital Networks founders are optimistic in describing the likelihood of their success in the highly competitive market.

The new fund will be headed by former Advent partner Nenad Marovac.
